ARRIVALS LIGHT THIS MORNING

THREE SMALL SHORE BOATS LANDED FARES AT THE FORT.

Arrivals of fresh fish this morning were light, only three small shore boats reporting with fish. The total catch was only 7000 pounds. Four of the gill netters lifted yesterday afternoon, but found poor pickings, landing 3000 pounds among them for their day's work. Nearly everything in the shape of small craft is out today, and with moderate weather off-shore, tomorrow's receipts should be the average.

MAN DROWNED FROM HADDOCKER

When the Boston schooner, Ethel Penny reported at the Fish Pier Boston yesterday from the Grand Banks, her flag was at half-mast for the loss of one of her crew, Oscar Spindler of Lunenburg, N. S. The death of Spindler occurred on Sunday, while the vessel was on the banks, he having been drowned when his dory capsized in a heavy sea.

Portland Fishing News.

Nine vessels arrived yesterday at the fish piers with a combined cargo of 45,000 pounds of groundfish. Fares, one small, the largest brought in being 7000 pounds. The arrivals were: Alice M. Doughty II., and the Emma G. with 7000 each; Richard J. Egan, 6000; Albert W. Black, 5000; Benjamin Thompson, 4000; Eleanor and the Natalie S., 3000 each; and the Alice M. Doughty I. and the Cochinar with 2500 pounds each.

FISHERMEN WAR

AGAINST BUYERS

Fishermen of New Mills, N. B., are almost at war with buyers and threaten to market their catch co-operatively through Dr. R. Hamer, secretary of the United Maritime Fishermen. The price offered at the start of the season, eight cents a pound, has been cut in half.—Halifax Herald, February 4.

KNOW NOTHING OF ABANDONING LOCAL VESSEL

According to news dispatches from Shelburne, N. S., last night, the local schooner Elk, Capt. McLaren, has been abandoned, by her skipper and crew at that port, the men having become dissatisfied with poor fishing, poor prices and bad weather conditions. The dispatch states that the high seas and heavy weather off of the Nova Scotia coast has made fishing impossible and under the conditions the men have not been making enough to support their families, and decided to leave the vessel there and go to Boston by steamer.

At the office of the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company this morning little credence was placed in the news dispatches. As far as the company officials knew, no abandonment of the craft had occurred.

BODY OF FISHERMAN

IS WASHED ASHORE

The body of William Cordeau, of Newport, R. I., fisherman, missing with his brother Alfonso since Tuesday, was washed ashore at Newport, yesterday. The Cordeau brothers, both of Porterville, N. S., went out in their boat, the Doris B., with the rest of the Newport fleet. Later, they were seen returning towards port, but they failed to arrive.
